Bow Church, or St. Mary-le-Bow, is the church which every child knows as the home of the bells which changed the career of Dick Whittington. It was rebuilt by Wren after the Great Fire of London, the great architect devoting particular attention to the beautiful and elaborate steeple, which is regarded as "the finest classic campanile in the world"; it is 225 feet in height. The interior is well worth a visit, and contains many interesting memorials, including a tablet to Milton's memory.
